Rival Companies

We find an article under the above caption in the Farmer, from which we clip the following:

It is not unusual for a railroad or steamboat company to set apart at the close of each business year a certain per cent, of the net profits, as a fund to be drawn upon for the purpose of meeting running expenses when, in order to drive out a competing company, the freight charges have been reduced below living rates. This has more than once been done in Oregon; and the producers of the country have had occasion to remember that when the weaker organization has been driven off the water, that the farmer has afterwards been compelled to pay an increase of freight charges beyond even the old oppressive rates, until the amount thus drawn from the reserve fund was restored by the sweat and toil of the husbandman. Mr. Holladay, as the controlling power of the old line of boats as well as the Oregon and California Railroad, reduced river charges to $1 per ton from any point on the river to Portland. This reduction of freight charges so much below what any company could possibly be warranted in adopting as a paying business, was supposed to be justified by past experience, which induced Mr. Holladay to believe the farmers would, as heretofore, always give their freights to the boat that would carry for the lowest sum, and Mr. Holladay had no doubt that this stroke of policy would give the coup de grace to the Willamette Transportation Company. But this was a great mistake into which he was led by imagining that the farmers were not as able as he was to learn from experience. The freighting season had approached perhaps its last quarter, and there yet remained a large amount of produce to be conveyed to market. And the farmers, remembering the former exactions to which they had been subjected, very naturally believed that to be thus led to give their business to the old line of boats, instead of the new one which had recently relieved them, would be re enacting an old folly that would in a brief space place them once more in the hands of a monopoly that had fattened and bloated upon the proceeds of their toil. And the sum of the result was that the great bulk of the freight remaining for shipment being carried by the Willamette Transportation Company, Mr. Holladay restored the former charges of the Company he represents.

It is plain to see that had the farmers allowed themselves and business to be drawn into the old boats, the consequences would even now be seen to be most disastrous to all their agricultural interests. How does the sowing of crops that grow and ripen in the alternate showers and sunshine of the season's most delectable influences, benefit and bless the farmer when capital is so massed as to absolutely bar his way to market?

But even before the new company's boats were launched, it was stated in a thousand forms that the recent organization had neither the moral support of friends nor the material aid of capital, and that its existence must necessarily be brief. But time has demonstrated that it had both friends and capital, and time will in like manner demonstrate that the existence will not be brief, and that it will continue to pay its debts as they mature, while those of its rival will be most vexatiously delayed to the great detriment of employes and stockholders.

Finally, when the Willamette Transportation Company launched a first class boat and reduced the freight charges at least one-half, an individual went through the country seeking to intimidate the farmers by telling them that if they gave their business to the new company they would be charged double rates as soon as Mr Holladay had crushed his rival. This menace was tried also upon leading shippers. But the threat of invidious discrimination failed of its object. No impression was made upon either the original producer or upon the shipper as such, because it was seen that the river must always afford the cheapest highway to market, that the railroad can never compete with it in this respect, and that any policy that would deprive the farmer of cheaper method is to the last degree ruinous

A very sensitive body is the lower house of the Connecticut Legislature. Numerous copies of a newspaper containing an article which spoke in a most disrespectful way of one of the committee having been circulated among members, a resolution was passed unanimously directing the pages to distribute no documents of any kind in the House until the same had been pronounced proper for the perusal of the members by the Speaker. It is a wonder the shad eaters didn't restrict themselves from reading the offending newspaper for all time to come. It would not have been a bit more silly.

The Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company will to morrow, 13th inst., apply to Judge Dillon, now holding the United States Circuit Court at Davenport, Iowa, for an injunction to restrain Governor Woodson, of this State, from advertising the Missouri Pacific Railroad, of this State, for sale, to satisfy the State lien on the road for some $800,000. The application is a peculiar one, inasmuch as it asks a Federal court to restrain a State Executive from carrying out an act of the Legislature. Attorney-General Ewing and R. Bowman, associate counsel, left for Davenport tonight to represent the State.

A morning paper says that at the present time, there are between 7,000 and 8,000 children kidnapped from Italy and held in slavery in large cities in the United States. This city, New York, being the great central entrepot, children are brought here and sold daily at private auction—prices varying from $100 to $400 for boys, and $100 to $500 for girls. Where the girls are exceptionally pretty, prices rule higher. Two little girls, who together play their violins in Wall street, are said to have been bought by the present owner for $1,600. Since the first of April last 317 of these children have arrived at this port.

General Longstreet was once the idol of the Southern people. Now, a New Orleans letter says "Our best citizens refuse to speak to him; ladies draw their skirts to one side in passing him upon the streets, as if he were a leper. In the eyes of the New Orleans aristocracy he has sunk too low to be noticed. In the public meetings he is denounced as a traitor, a renegade, a black-hearted deserter of his people, and, in fact, every epithet is thrown at him that malice can paint or ingenuity can invent. But none of this provokes a response from Longstreet. He goes his way, courteous but sad, turning neither to the right nor to the left, and paying no attention to the mud thrown at him."

A special from Bismarck, Dakota Territory, says the party of engineers appointed to survey the North Pacific Railroad, and for whose protection a strong force of troops were provided, left Fort Abraham Lincoln Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock, accompanied by two companies of infantry, one of cavalry, and twenty eight Indian scouts, under command of General Rosser. When a short distance from the post one hundred and fifty or more Sioux Indians appeared and attacked the party. A fight of two hours ensued, resulting in the repulse of the savages. There was no loss by the engineers or military. Four Sioux were killed and twelve scalps taken by the Indian scouts. After the fight the surveying proceeded.

Subjoined is a complete list of members of the House of Representatives who, up to date, have returned their back pay into the Treasury. Quite a number of names of members who have been generally credited with returning this money, do not appear on the books of the Treasury. The real number is thirty two, making, with the list of Senators already telegraphed, a total of forty-six Congressmen who have made re-payments: Barber, of Wisconsin; Cox, of New York; Crebs, of Illinois; Coburn, of Indiana; Cotton, of Iowa; Frye, of Maine; Finkelnburg, of Missouri; Farwell, of Illinois; Garfield, of Ohio; Hill, of New Jersey; Halsey, of New Jersey; Hawley, of Connecticut; Hawley, of Illinois; Hale, of Maine; Holman, of Indiana; Hazleton, of Wisconsin; Kerr, of Indiana; Lynch, of Maine; McCrary, of Iowa; Monroe, of Ohio; Mitchell, of Wisconsin; Perry, of New York; Rusk, of Wisconsin; Roberts, of New York; Starkweather, of Connecticut; Sessions, of New York; Sawyer, of Wisconsin; Townsend, of Pennsylvania; Upson, of Ohio; Waldron, of Michigan; Wheeler, of New York.

He wrote a letter to a lager beer waiting girl, saying that he intended to kill himself, and has not been seen since. A portion of his clothing has been found on Broadway wharf, covered with blood. The Coroner held an inquest to-day. The post mortem examination showed that consumption was the immediate cause of his death. The testimony before the Coroner showed a series of barbarous acts on the part of the Captain and Mate toward the deceased. He was ill, but they beat and kicked him every day, and once hanged him over the bows of the vessel where the water was sometimes over his head. Off Cape Horn the Mate slung him overboard in the water in the same manner. Soon after that he was confined to his bed, where he remained till he died.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The subject of granting the use of a portion of the Mission Bay front to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, came before the Board of Supervisors this evening. An amended order was agreed on to-day by the Railroad representatives and property owners. At the meeting to night, the amended order was introduced by Menzies, who moved that it be passed to print. The differences between it and the original order, were not apparent on the reading of the former. Forbes moved the limit of the franchise be twenty five years instead of during the corporate existence of the Company. Passed—eleven ayes, one no. Forbes then moved that the franchise terminate at the north end of Louisiana street, instead of letting the track run along that street. Menzies offered a motion, and said that the Railroad Company is acting in good faith, and does not intend to take any advantage of the city in the matter. He alluded to the Commission which is to examine and report on the feasibility of constructing a channel into Oakland, and the building of warehouses there for the use of the railroad companies and said if proper facilities are not granted here the companies will go there or elsewhere to the damage of San Francisco. Forbes' motion was carried and the order, as amended, was passed to print by a unanimous vote.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 24, 1873

Antiquated Logic.

And now comes the New York Herald and presents a long article on the situation of matters in connection with the United States Senatorship for Oregon, in which it is assumed as a settled point, that a man elected under an assumed name is not entitled to his seat. We confess an utter inability to comprehend the position taken by the Herald and those other journals that have expressed similar views. There is in our mind no proposition of law better settled, than that a mere misnomer of one of the parties does not invalidate any transaction, so long as there is no mistake in the identity of the party actually intended. No one can pretend that the person who has taken his place as Senator from Oregon is not the person chosen by the Legislature to fill that position, no matter by what name the members of the Legislature were accustomed to call him when he was elected. It was not the name that was elected Senator, it was the person. If any other person had appeared on the 4th of March, and, after proving that he lived in Oregon, that his true name was John H. Mitchell, and that the person intended to be elected was not John H. Mitchel, but was in fact John Doe; and if upon this showing the stranger had proposed to contest with John Doe the right to the seat in the Senate, does any man in his senses suppose such a contestant would have received any more attention than was necessary to have the Sergeant-at-Arms put him away as an intruder? Of course not. So far as the simple fact of changing his name is concerned, it cannot possibly affect the Senator's right to a seat, unless the Senate should allow themselves to be forced by other circumstances to adopt as a guide to their decision an arbitrary rule, unsound in itself, and which that body itself would not hereafter regard as a binding precedent.

But this shallow and artificial mode of reasoning, by which it is proposed to deprive a Senator of his seat because the men who voted for him happened not to know his true name, is met by one of the only two Eastern papers we have observed that take the other side, by a logic equally as shallow and absurd. We refer to the Pittsburg Commercial, which bases its argument in favor of the Senator's right to hold his seat upon the proposition that he did not take a name other than his parents gave him, but simply "re-arranged" that name, transposing the Mitchell and Hipple, so as to make it John Hipple Mitchell instead of John Mitchell Hipple. This statement of the fact is not correct, for his assumed name, as written in full by himself here, is John Hiram Mitchell; but it would not make a particle of difference with the argument if it were a mere transposition. A man's name is intended as a designation by which he is to be known, and any alteration of it that so far destroys its character as such designation that a person seeing the new name would not suppose it to belong to the same person is taking a different name, whether it be effected through a mere transposition, as assumed by the Commercial, or by a more radical change as is actually the fact in the [illegible] discussion.

These newspapers seem to be laboring under the impression that the Senate of the United States is composed of a lot of fourteenth-century theologians who are going to lose sight of the substance of the question—if there is any question about it—and decide so grave a matter upon technical grounds that have been exploded in law, equity and theology for hundreds of years.

The Civilized Celestial.

John Chinaman has evidently imbibed the spirit of American civilization to a most encouraging degree. See by what means he proposes to meet the impending troubles between him and the enterprising Caucasians who, after laboring for a quarter of a century to draw him into relations of intimate friendship with them, are now cudgeling their brains to find some way to get rid of him. A statement of the facts, from a thoroughly celestial stand-point no doubt, has been drawn up under the auspices of the six Chinese Companies doing business on this coast, and will be sent to the Chinese Government, there to be reproduced in innumerable copies, and circulated throughout the flowery kingdom. Thus are the grievances, present and prospective, of John, to be made known to his friends and fellow-citizens in Asia to the end, of course, that a healthy public sentiment may be created on that continent on so momentous a subject. It may be a little difficult for the average American, with the average American's practical ideas and lack of sentiment, to perceive just how John is to be immediately benefited by working up this healthy public sentiment in Asia; but John has seen that thing done in this country, and he knows from that fact that there is something in it. It is encouraging to think that John has got up to the point of using intelligible and intelligent methods, at all events. John always believed in the use of moral suasion rather than brute force in accomplishing practical results; at least so we infer from the accounts we have read of the manner in which he fights with a gong instead of a broadsword in the great wars that sometimes shake the ancient empire of his ancestors and himself. But it is a long step in the direction of permanent improvement when John deliberately resolves to settle his troubles with us by giving vent to his sorrows in his native land.

In the case of Woodhull, Claflin and Blood, indicted in the United States District Court for sending obscene publications through the mails, counsel for the accused moved, June 12th, to quash the indictment for the reason that it was not sufficiently specific, and did not afford his clients information upon the precise charges they would have to meet. Judge Blatchford denied the motion, and said that he would sustain the indictments substantially, but must request the District Attorney to furnish the defendants with a bill of particulars. The trial was fixed for Monday, 16th inst., as to Claflin and Blood. In answer to a remark by Jordan, of counsel, that it was possible Mrs. Woodhull would be present, even against the advice of her physicians, Judge Blatchford remarked that he did not wish to go on with the trial of a woman in ill health, but if Mrs. Woodhull chose to be willful, she might come into court at her own peril.

The free bath system of New York and Boston is found to be an admirable precaution against disease, while it is a great convenience to the poorer classes. A journal of the former city says that during the first week since the opening of the free baths 42,000 boys and 21,000 girls have taken advantage of them.

More about Water.

A little inquiry will satisfy any one that the city of Portland is not so much at the mercy of the Water Company as some persons, including the company themselves, appear to suppose. The company's franchise is not an exclusive right, but a mere naked license to lay down pipes in the streets of the city. It may be revoked any day, so as to prevent all further interference with the streets, either for the purpose of laying down additional mains, or supply pipes, or for the purpose of repairing those already laid. The city can also grant similar rights to any other person or company, with such enlarged privileges as may be deemed expedient, as a means of inducing the construction of good and sufficient works; or the city may build works of its own—which it is certain to do sooner or later.

Nor is our city surrounded by any such circumstances as make it an inevitable necessity for it to submit to any exorbitant demand at the hands of the Water Company, even for the present. The fire cisterns can be filled by pumping water from the river with one of our fire steam engines, and this supply will be sufficient for all ordinary occasions; and when extraordinary occasions present themselves, as in the case of an extensive conflagration, there will be no question about the right to take water from any main from which it can be obtained, and pay for it at what it is reasonably worth, and no more. By this method the city can obtain water for all purposes at a much less cost than the price demanded by the company, and at the same time can settle the fact that it will not submit to such an extortion as that now proposed. It may be there are some persons who have not fully realized the magnitude of the demand made by the company upon the city. At present the water used by the city for all purposes is furnished for $100 per month, or $1,200 per year. The company have notified the City Council that after the expiration of the present contract, which has but a few weeks more to run, the charge will be $750 per month, or $9,000 per year—and all, so far as one can see, because the citizens have exercised their right to reject a proposal of the water company whereby the works were offered to the city at a price over fifty per cent. greater than a competent engineer has estimated would be their value if they were new and of the best quality.

As to the supply to individual citizens, an advance of the price would work a great hardship upon many of them. The present rates are enormously high. Cities that own their own works, supply their citizens at less than half the rates charged by this company and yet derive large revenues from their water rates, over and above interest on the cost of their construction, the expense of keeping them in operation, and the cost of repairs. Portland could do the same, but it could not do so without building good works; nor could it construct works in time to save its citizens from the extortion now threatened.

The present rates are two dollars per month for a single faucet. We have heard it asserted within the last day or two, by a person who is in a position to know, that for less money than this every house in the city can be abundantly supplied from wagons. We do not know whether that is true or not. Of course such a source of supply could never be considered permanent; but many larger cities than this have obtained all the water they need in just that way. It is not a North American custom, but its practicability has been demonstrated in various places and on a broader scale than the present wants of Portland would call for. Divers ways can be devised to avoid further exactions by this company, until the city can take suitable measures to give permanent relief to its citizens.

Cholera.

From nearly every section of the Union, except the Pacific coast, comes intelligence of the general prevalence of Asiatic cholera as an epidemic. North and South, and in the valley of the Mississippi, a large number of deaths are reported. In Cincinnati, Louisville, Nashville, Memphis, Cairo and other places in the West, the deaths from the disease are very numerous.

It seems but a few days since the first cases were reported almost simultaneously at New York and New Orleans, and the rapidity with which the disease has spread is truly alarming.

In the past the people of this coast have enjoyed remarkable exemption from those fatal epidemics that so often sweep across the country at the other side of the continent; so that we have come to look upon such calamities as something to excite our pity for others, but not to cause any anxiety concerning ourselves. This continued good fortune in the past furnishes sufficient ground upon which to predicate a hope that the future may bring no cessation of it. But we must remember that while the same mountains and rivers still lie between us and the Atlantic States, we are practically much nearer them than we formerly were. The improved means of transportation have brought us into such proximity to the East that numbers of persons living in each of the two sections of the country pass and repass almost every day. We should therefore recognize the fact that we are much more exposed than heretofore to all contagious diseases that may prevail over beyond the mountains, and should exercise corresponding prudence and care in relation to such matters. We hope there is no danger of the cholera's reaching this coast and this city; but it can not do any harm for the people here to observe such regulations in their personal habits as are understood among scientific physicians to prepare the system to repel its attacks, or prevent its fatal effects. We once heard a physician of large experience in the treatment of cholera remark that if he could control the personal habits of every person in any city and the drainage and sewage of the place, he would not hesitate to give any amount of bonds conditioned that there should never be a fatal case of cholera in that city. While there is no occasion for alarm here, there is always occasion for caution.

Mr. William Henry Johnson, a colored resident of New York City, alleges that on the 28th of May he entered the Theater Comique of Mr. Josh Hart, and purchased a ticket for the orchestra; that he presented the said ticket to the doorkeeper, who refused him admission, and told him to return it to the box-office, where he would receive the difference in price, and obtain one to the place reserved for colored men. Whereat William Henry became indignant and sued out a warrant against the discriminating Josh for a violation of the Civil Rights bill. Counsel for defense contend that the Civil Rights law is unconstitutional; that theaters are private property, the manager having to charge such prices, make such regulations, and admit or reject such persons as they choose or who shall best conduce to the comfort of their patrons. The case is now before the courts.

It is stated that a paper is being presented for signatures to those members of the last Legislature who supported Mr. Mitchell for the Senate, fully indorsing that gentleman's past conduct, and expressing the hope that he will not resign. Nobody, so far as we can see, has any right to object to a man's signing any paper he wants to sign, but we predict the number who will sign this document will fall considerably below the number who voted for the Senator, and we think it is unquestionably true that if the Republican party attempts to carry this man any longer it will be carried by him into its grave.

By the way, if we were in Gravel Brown's place they'd never get our signature till that gravel was all hauled and laid on the ground. Never another bit of dirty work would they get out of us, on jaw-bone, if we were Gravel.

Our report of the second day's proceedings of the Willamette Baptist Association, which appears in another column this morning should have appeared yesterday; but by that singular fatality that seems of late to wait upon the steps of many important communications intended for publication in the OREGONIAN, it failed to reach us till too late for that issue. We trust that our readers will make proper allowance for the fact that a newspaper man, like any other man is liable to be made the victim of "a game he does not understand."

The Russian Invalide, of recent date, contains a long descriptive and statistical article about Khiva. It estimates the number of the inhabitants at three hundred and forty thousand, and of the capital at twenty thousand. The citadel in the center of the city was mounted with twenty cannon at the commencement of the war. The Khan can muster three thousand soldiers in uniform, and armed with percussion rifles, but quite untrustworthy. He relied chiefly on the inaccessibility of the capital from the Russian side.

The New York Express of the 12th instant says that no redress is to be left Commissioner Van Buren but to pocket both the Government affront and his own loss. The State Department refuses to publish the papers in his case, but Congress, it is to be presumed, will publish them in December, when the whole affair will be pretty well forgotten. Senator Adams, of New York, who sailed for Europe a few days ago, was made to understand that none of the old Commissioners will be reinstated.

Among the recommendations of the Civil Service Advisory Board is one that the country be divided into four districts, and a chief examiner be appointed for each; these chief examiners to travel about their districts, and in connection with local officers of sufficient intelligence to conduct competitive examinations, and forward the result to Washington for inspection and decision. The object is to save applicants the expense of coming to Washington for examination, as at present.

Governor Austin, of Minnesota, declines to be a candidate for re-election. He has held the office for two terms and says that it has cost him $3,000 more than his salary, to live "which, when a man has earned what little he has by hard knocks, is not very satisfactory." Republican papers of that State intimate that he would have been re-nominated if he had expressed the wish.

This time it is the Chinese who have "struck" at Beaver Falls. Ninety-nine, under the charge of Chow Hung, have left for New Orleans, whence a number of them will go to San Francisco. Mr. Hung states that the trouble at the cutlery works was caused by Ah Pay, who was their treasurer, withholding from $6 to $8 per month from each.

Reports of the proceedings of the board of inquiry at Vienna, while they do not impugn the honesty of General Van Buren, show his incapacity for the business placed in his charge, hence the irregularities which led to his suspension.

The bond-holders of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad are holding indignation meetings in New York city to find out why their bonds are down to 31.

The famous Carew Paper Mills at Hadley Falls, Massachusetts, were burned on the night of June 19th. Insurance covered the entire loss of $50,000.

The San Francisco Call mentions the discovery of a superior quality of petroleum at Los Gatos, Southern California.

The trial of young Walworth, the parricide, began yesterday in New York city.

Troubles of the Union Pacific.

A New York dispatch of the 19th inst., has the subjoined concerning the withholding of certain land patents from the Union Pacific Company:

The Union Pacific Railroad Company does not succeed in obtaining patents for the remainder of the lands located, but not yet patented. There are about twenty million acres included in their original grant, and up to the present time patents have been issued for between 900,000 and 1,000,000 only of lands lying in Nebraska. Of this, only, half was selected by the road, patents for the other half being withheld; not, however, because of the pending Credit Mobilier suit, but because the Government has no information that the road has been completed in accordance with the terms of the law.

The last report of the condition of the road was made by a Commission of eminent citizens, of which Ben Wade was a member. They found the road was not constructed and equipped according to law. The ties were of soft wood, and the culverts were of wood instead of stone. Nevertheless, the Commission recommended that half the land located by the road be patented to the Company, but that the other half be reserved till the terms of the law were complied with. The Government is acting according to this report. The Secretary, in answer to an application for the rest of the patents, expresses his willingness to appoint a Commission to inspect the road and report whether the law has been fulfilled, but the Company does not seem in haste to have any more inspections. They, however, have desired patents for all lands east of the Rocky Mountains, and that the lands west of those patented should all be reserved. This proposition is not accepted and every alternate section of those located is reserved. It is, therefore, not likely that the Union Pacific will secure any more patents for months, possibly for years to come.

A correspondent of the World writes from Madrid about Castelar, as follows:

History is his favorite study, and is of immense assistance to him in his speeches. He has travelled much, though never yet outside of Europe. Rome, Berlin, Paris, and London are as familiar to him as Madrid. He has often spoken to me of New York, with its great newspapers and its great publishing houses, such as the Messrs. Harper, with whom he is under contract. Their enterprise and liberality, so different to that of Spanish houses, has secured his co-operation in their Monthly on terms highly remunerative to him. Between the engagement with them and the correspondence of two South American journals who pay him $50 each for a bi-weekly "letter," he was adding something like $10,000 a year to the $1,500 he received for his professorship of history in the University of Madrid. All this literary work he has had to lay aside since he entered office, and drop down to the miserable pittance of $6,000 a year—the salary attached to the Spanish Ministry of State.

WILLAMETTE BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.

Second Day.

SALEM, June 20, 1873.

The first exercises of the day commenced at 9 A. M., and consisted in a prayer meeting conducted by Rev. A. R. Medbury. After the close of these exercises, which were necessarily brief, a vacancy in the Committee on Home Missions was filled by the appointment of Rev. J. A. Wirth of Oregon City.

As is customary, a Committee on Resolutions was also appointed.

Pursuant to previous agreement, to-day was devoted to the discussion of subjects connected with Sabbath Schools and Sabbath work. The programme of the day being read, the session opened with appropriate remarks by the Rev G. C. Chandler.

First in order was a printed address by Rev. Addison Jones, on "How to improve our Sabbath Schools," after which the subject was freely discussed and elucidated.

Following this discussion, Rev. A. R. Medbury gave a short address on Union Sabbath Schools, in which he opposed the plan of union, because, in Sabbath Schools strictly union, there must be a great sacrifice of personal convictions of truth or no sacrifice, and "a row" consequent thereon. The discussion was continued and participated in by several others.

A carefully prepared communication from Major Robert, an active Sabbath School worker of Portland, was read. It was mainly a recommendation of certain works as being the most useful helps to superintendents and teachers in Sabbath Schools. His criticisms showed good discrimination and the essay, as a whole, was highly appreciated.

In the afternoon the exercises were resumed by the reading of an essay on "Who is qualified to superintend and teach?" The essay described the qualifications of the model superintendent and teacher, but did not tell how these qualifications could be acquired.

The next subject—"Early conversions; how to secure them," was opened by Rev. E. Russ in some appropriate remarks, after which it was thoroughly discussed.

The next interesting feature in the exercises, was the opening of the question drawer, in which questions were drawn and persons called upon to answer them impromptu.

In the evening the audience was entertained by the Sunday School of the Church here. Their exercises, which consisted in synopses of certain parts of the book of Genesis, recitations of Scripture, and music, were excellent and reflected great credit on their leaders.

Some Important Facts about Cholera.

PORTLAND, June 23, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A knowledge of the following facts concerning cholera, elicited by the scientific investigations of Prof. Pettenkofer, of Munich, may prove useful, if not in preventing, at least in lessening the ravages of the disease, which is now spreading through the Eastern States, should it reach our city:

"Cholera is neither altogether a contagion, nor entirely a miasma, but a most dangerous bastard, combining all the virulence of both.

"The origin of cholera lies in a specific ferment or germ, contained in the excrements of cholera-stricken persons, or even of otherwise healthy people, coming from an infected locality.

"Cholera, if once introduced in the shape of this germ, develops itself into an epidemic only in such localities where the water, circulating in a loose, porous soil, is impregnated with fæcal matter, through percolation from cesspools, sewers and gutters.

"Such polluted subsoil water becomes the more dangerous when, by atmospheric influence, it alternately rises and falls, leaving, in the latter case, the upper strata impregnated with putrid organic matter, to dry up, and thereby exhale volumes of most poisonous gases, which enter the human system through our lungs.

"Cholera is therefore propagated not only by the atmosphere, when charged with fæcal gases, but also by wells, when contaminated by excremental percolation, the latter being by far the most dangerous mode, as the ferment or poison is much more concentrated and powerful in the water we drink than in the air we inhale.

"Excrements, even of cholera-stricken persons, never spread their infectious ferment while fresh, but only after the second day, when alkaline fermentation sets in, which therefore must be prevented by admixture of disinfectants in sufficient quantity;" or by removing the excrements altogether, day by day, as they are produced, before fermentation can develop the fatal germ they may contain, and to do this will require proper attention to house and other drains and sewers.

SUBSCRIBER.

Captain Hall's Last Dispatch.

In an extended telegraphic report of the Polaris investigation, at Washington, we find the last dispatch ever penned by the commander of the Polaris. It reads as follows:

SIXTH SNOW HOUSE ENCAMPMENT, CAPE BREVOORT, north side of entrance to Newman's Bay, lat. 82 3 north, long. 61 20 west, October 20, 1871.

To the Honorable Secretary of the U. S. Navy, G. M. Robeson: Myself and party, consisting of Mr. Chester, first mate, my Esquimaux, Joe and Greenland Esquimaux Hans, left the ship in winter quarters in Thank God Harbor, lat. 81 38 north, long. 61 44 west, at meridian October 10th, on a journey by two sleds, drawn by 14 dogs, to discover, if possible, a feasible route inland for my sledges to journey next spring to reach the North Pole, purposing to adopt such route if found better than a route over the old floes and hummocks of the strait which I have designated Robeson Strait, after the Hon. Secretary of the United States Navy. We arrived here on the afternoon of October 17th, having discovered a lake and river on our way. Along the latter our route was almost a serpentine one, which led us on to this bay. Fifteen minutes distant from here, southward and eastward from the top of an iceberg, near the mouth of said river, we could see that this bay, which I have named after the Rev. Dr. Newman, extended from Cape Brevoort. We can see land extending on the west side of the strait to the north, and distant about 70 miles, thus making land we have discovered as far as lat. 83 5 north.

There is an appearance of land further north, and extending northeasterly than what I have just noticed; but a peculiar dark nimbus or cloud that constantly hangs over what seems to be land prevents my making a full determination. On August 31st the Polaris made her greatest northern latitude, 82° 29′ north; after several attempts to get her further north, she became beset, when we were drifted down to about 81° 30′, when an opening occurred. We steamed out of the ice and made harbor September 3d, where the Polaris is [a corner of the manuscript is here burned off] Up to the time I and my party left the ship all have been well, and continue with high hopes of accomplishing our great mission.

We find this a much warmer country than we expected. All the mountains on either side of Kennedy Channel and Robeson Strait we found entirely bare of snow. We have found that the country abounds with game—geese, duck, musk cattle, rabbits, wolves, foxes, bears, partridges, etc. Our sailors have shot two seals in the open water while at this encampment. Our long Arctic night commenced October 13th, having seen only the upper limb of the sun above the glacier at meridian.

This dispatch to the Secretary of the Navy I finish at this moment, 8:23 P. M., having written it in ink in our snow hut.

A copy of this dispatch was placed in a pillar, at Brevoort Cape, October 21, 1871.

CITY.

PRESENTATION.—At an adjourned meeting of [illegible] Co. No. 2, held last evening, Miss [illegible] F. Sheridan, a well known young lady of this city, was elected unanimously an honorary member of that company. This exceptional mark of preferment was shown Miss Sheridan, in recognition of the fact that this young lady has been a friend of the company since child hood, and a very special favorite with all the [illegible]. This manifestation of good will and [illegible] on the part of the members of the company toward Miss Sheridan, did not end by [illegible] as an honorary member. Immediate[ly] after the election, a committee of gentlemen [illegible] to the residence of the young lady, bearing the information to the effect that her presence at the meeting would be very acceptable to the company. Miss [illegible] modestly complied with the request of [illegible] of honor, and soon made her appearance at the meeting. A few moments after [illegible], Mr. Hallock addressed the young lady in a few well-chosen remarks, informing her of her election as an honorary member of the Company, and then presented, in behalf of the members of Multnomah Co. No. 2, a beautiful gold badge of elegant design and superb workmanship. Miss Sheridan was so completely surprised by the unexpected event, that she could not find language to adequately express her feelings, except to simply return thanks for the testimonial [illegible] and esteem entertained by the donors. [illegible], Mr. Jos. Bachman came gallantly to the rescue of the embarrassed young lady, and responded to Mr. Hallock in a very neat, [illegible] address, after which the meeting adjourned. The present is a most substantial token of the [illegible] and esteem entertained by the [illegible] towards the fair recipient. The badge is made of the purest gold, and in workmanship, could not be surpassed anywhere. It was made at the [illegible] store of Henrichsen & Co., on First street, and cost the sum of $75.

[illegible] ON THE TRACK.—We are in[formed] that mischievous boys are in the habit of [illegible] the track along Fourth street small [illegible] and like obstructions. No motive [illegible] for this very questionable sport [illegible] pure deviltry. These obstructions [illegible] every day placed on the track, [illegible] no child has [illegible] as yet. [illegible] malicious wretch [illegible] on the track where it crosses Mar[illegible] of the city. The locomotive [illegible] the gravel train up to the summit, [illegible] the engineer did not observe [illegible]. The first indication given him [illegible] the foremost dump car struck [illegible] as thought the car wheels were [illegible] while the stone [illegible] bottom of the ravine. Almost [illegible] the wheels, al[illegible] the track, settled back on the rails [illegible]. Had the car been [illegible] it can easily be seen what [illegible] have resulted to the [illegible]. Too severe punishment [illegible] on any one who is guilty of such a [illegible] attempt on the lives [illegible].

[illegible].—The examination [illegible]. The following is [illegible]:

AN IMPOSTOR.—We are [illegible] by several gen[tlemen] [illegible] an old [illegible] Duncan [illegible], claiming to be recently from Canada, [illegible] has a family of four sons, &c., etc., a [illegible] by trade, and represents himself as out of money, hungry and unable to get work of any kind—is an impostor. [illegible] came on the cars from Oregon City a few days ago, and is now in the city [illegible] the charitable. He has been through the valley making representations of extreme destitution. He is said to be [illegible] and hearty appearing man. Our [illegible] never been slow to respond to the appeals of charity; but it might be well to know [illegible] is not illy bestowed before giving [illegible].

[illegible] DOWN.—The water in the Columbia and [illegible] rivers has begun to fall. Early on [illegible] last, the water had reached a point on the O. S. N. Co.'s lower wharf over nine feet. From Saturday evening to the present writing, the river has receded about five inches and is still [illegible] down slowly. An enthusiastic individual [illegible] business on Front street exclaimed yesterday in view of this fact "that the country is [illegible]." One week's hot weather might put [illegible] on his enthusiasm.

[illegible] PORTLAND SCHOOL.—The closing exercises of the term, and an exhibition by the pupils of the school under the conduct of Prof. King, will take place on Friday next, beginning at 10 o'clock A. M. and continuing until 4 P. M., except an intermission of one hour at noon. These exercises will be highly interesting to the patrons and friends of the school, who are cordially invited to be present. Prof. King is sure to make such [illegible] successful.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Read under "New To-Day" the advertisement of the Fourth of July celebration, announced to take place at St. Joe. From the extensive arrangements made, it promises to be one of the grandest affairs of the kind given in the State.

We refer our readers to the advertisement in another column of the Marsh Truss Co., of San Francisco, an institution that has gained considerable reputation by their many remarkable cures of RUPTURE. This Co. is a branch of the celebrated House of Marsh & Co, New York, which has a reputation of nearly forty years and are endorsed by the Medical Faculty wherever they have established branches. We commend this Company to our Ruptured friends, feeling assured they will receive the only legitimate cure for Hernia (Rupture). This Company does not use any worthless washes called "curative compounds" that has never cured Rupture, and are calculated to deceive. Their office is at 513 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

PROTECTIVE ALLIANCE.—The People's Anti Chinese Protective Alliance, No. 1, of Oregon, will meet at the Council Chamber in East Portland, Wednesday evening, June 25th, 1873. The public are respectfully requested to attend.

By order of the Executive Committee.

SPIRITUAL GROVE MEETING.—There will be a Spiritual Grove Meeting on the 12th and 13th of July near Parrott's Landing and Trestle No. 19 of the railroad. The meeting will be about two miles and a half below Canby Station.

At the Police Court in Victoria, on Monday, 16th, three of the prisoners arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the murder of the Dwyer family, were discharged. "Joe" was remanded for one week.

If you want pure, fine liquors of any kind, go to E. D. Tyne's, northwest corner of Oak and First streets, agent for the sale of Jesse Moore & Co's fine Old Bourbon and Rye Whiskies of Louisville, Ky.

The public mind has been somewhat agitated with the Modoc war, an occasional marine or railway disaster, and the dull times, and the prospect of buying clothing at a figure not large enough to clean a man to the bedrock. The place has been found where you can buy men and boy's clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods, at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's, corner of Front and Washington street, where a full assortment of men and boys' clothing, in the latest styles, can be selected from.

Don't go about with shabby clothes while an opportunity is afforded you to obtain wearing apparel at only a nominal sum. You miss a splendid chance to get a suit of clothing cheap when you fail to call on J. Kohn & Co., 91 Front street, where the counters are crowded with the very latest styles. Twenty dollars will buy a fine outfit there.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees of East Portland met last evening at the usual hour.

Members present—Garrigan, Hawthorne, Stephens, Shattuck and VanCleave. Absent—McMillan.

Minutes of the last meeting read and approved.

REPORTS.

The City Marshal submitted a report of the list of delinquent taxes. Report was laid on the table.

CLAIMS.

The following claims against the city were audited, and warrants ordered drawn in favor of the same:

Green & Sheldon, $12 50; J. K. Gill & Co., $2 50; Bellinger & Curry, $13 50; Bulletin Co., $8 50; A. J. Hoyt, $8 00; David Raffety & Bros., $1 00; A. McCullem, $1 50; N. Clinton, $7 00; W. Jones, $4 50; W. S. Gorden, $6 00; OREGONIAN, $8 50; Extra Policemen for the day of Election, $10 00; for Judges and Clerks of the City Election, $30 00.

Mr. VanCleave moved that the claims of the OREGONIAN and News be laid on the table for the present. There appeared to be quite a difference in the rates charged by the two journals. The bill of the OREGONIAN was $8 50, and that of the News was $13 50. He was not in favor of paying $5 more to one journal than another. His motion prevailed and the claims were laid on the table.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. VanCleave stated that the time for the collection of the road-tax by the Street Commissioner had expired. Unless the time was extended, that officer would be compelled to make his returns and present the delinquent list, and then proceed to the collection of the same by execution or otherwise. He moved that the entire matter be referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property, who would be empowered to collect the same. The motion prevailed and the matter was so referred.

On motion it was resolved that when the Board adjourned it should meet again on Wednesday evening next.

The Board then adjourned.

Newspaper Responsibility.

An exchange thus discusses the subject of the responsibility of newspapers in connection with the publication of matters affecting the character of individuals:

> Reckless and malicious slander should never be tolerated, nor, on the other hand, should a newspaper be afraid to speak plainly when occasion requires. Newspapers in these days are not merely disseminators of news—they should be guardians of public morals and conservators of public rights. These latter functions are quite as important as the former. The faithful performance of these duties necessitates allusions to persons in cases that legitimately arise for criticism. But there can be no question that newspapers should strictly refrain from invading the sanctity of private life, unless when a clear public necessity requires it, and to fail to do this duty when required is weakness. When a journal falls short in this direction, it soon comes to be regarded as a nondescript, and generally has little decided character and less influence. On the other hand, violent and indiscriminate abuse usually reacts on the journal using it, and reduces it to the same low level. When the motive which prompts the course of a paper is just and good, it will rarely be found to transgress; the reasons will be obvious, and will generally be found to consist in a misapprehension of facts which, when pointed out, will be promptly and cheerfully corrected by any right-minded journalist. Where the motive is pure and right, the journal that is withal independent and outspoken will command influence and respect. Where the motives are venal, their true character will soon become known. After all, the tone of a newspaper generally carries with it confidence and influence, or suspicion and feebleness.

CLERICAL FUN.—In the newly published volume of Monographs by Lord Houghton, there is, in one of Sidney Smith, the following story of his clerical fun in Yorkshire:

He willingly assisted his neighbors in their clerical duties, and an anecdote of one of these occasions is still current in the district, for the authenticity of which I will not vouch, but which seems to be good enough to be true. He dined with the incumbent on the preceding Saturday, and the evening passed in great hilarity, the 'squire, by name Kershaw, being conspicuous for his loud enjoyment of the stranger's jokes.

"I am very glad that I have amused you," said Sidney Smith at parting, "but you must not laugh at my sermon to-morrow."

"I should hope I know the difference between here and at church," remarked the gentlemen with some sharpness.

"I am not so sure of that," replied the visitor.

"I'll bet you a guinea on it," said the 'squire.

"Take you," said the divine.

The preacher ascended the steps of the pulpit apparently suffering from a severe cold, with his handkerchief to his face, and at once sneezed out the name "Ker-shaw" in various intonations. This ingenious assumption of the readiness with which a man would recognize his own name in sounds imperceptible to the ears of others proved accurate.

The poor gentlemen burst into a guffaw, to the scandal of the congregation, and the minister, after looking at him with a stern reproach, proceeded with his discourse and won the bet.

A LETTER OF HORACE GREELEY.—The New York Tribune prints the following letter, written in April, 1865, by Horace Greeley, and addressed to Mrs. R. M. Whipple:

My Friend:—I have your letter. We must put down the rebellion; we must make an end of slavery; for the good of the whole human race requires both of these; but do not let us seem to do in wrath what is dictated by love. We may have to kill more of the Southern savages, including their chiefs, but let us not drink their blood and imbibe therefrom their spirit. I say in all truth, that I would gladly let them all go unpunished (by war) to-morrow, if they would but give up slavery, stop the rebellion, come back and behave themselves. And I am not very good at that. If I were better I should probably be willing (as I once was) to pay them something for their slaves; now I think they have taken their pay in rebellion, and must be satisfied with that. O, my friend! remember "Father forgive them," we might be as they are had we been nursed on the tiger's milk of slavery. Now let us be satisfied with the inevitable woes of this terrible war.

Yours,

HORACE GREELEY.

A largely attended Territorial Convention, held at Denver, last Wednesday, adopted a resolution recommending the States of California and Nevada, and the Territories of Arizona, New Mexico, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming and Colorado, to send delegates to a convention to meet in San Francisco, in September, 1873, to consider the subject of irrigation for the lands of the West.

"I say, Tom, that is a nobby suit you have on. I declare I've been trying to get something that will fit me to a dot, and that I can depend on to wear well. Where did you buy them?" "I was passing along First street, last week, and as I turned the corner of Washington street I noticed some fine cloths and furnishing goods. The attraction was so great that I stepped inside, and after selecting the materials, I ordered what may be termed an elegant fitting suit. The place is Fishel & Roberts."

If Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is half as valuable as people say it is, no family should be without it. Certainly no person, be he lawyer, doctor, minister, or of any other profession should start on a journey without it. No sailor, fisherman or woodsman should be without it. In fact, it is needed wherever there is an ache, sprain, cut, bruise, cough or cold.

Farmers and Horse Men [illegible] what we know of the utility of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, and in reply we would say, through the columns of the OREGONIAN, that we have heard from hundreds who have used them with astonishing results, that is also our experience.

OREGON.

The Bedrock Democrat has a new German text head, which looks very neat.

Six thousand dollars will be required to make good the loss of logs at Eugene by the last week's high water.

A resident of Eastern Oregon when speaking of "that noble bird," is not to be understood as referring to the American eagle, but to the sage hen.

On last Saturday, a Chinaman on his way to Sparta or Gem city, was taken sick, and before he could be taken back to Baker City, breathed his last.

Alex La Buff has a match race on Buckskin, against a California filly, to be run on the Baker City race course, on the 10th of July, for $600 a side.

A gentleman writing from Alsea valley says, he has a field of wheat in which the grain lies as flat upon the ground as it would if rolled with a heavy roller.

The "gold boulder" found on the claim of George W. Lake, on Burnt river, of which mention has before been made, is valued at $1,000 or $1,200.

Walter Fernald, of Rye Valley, Baker county, has received his patent from the United States for his Placer Mining claim in Rye valley, containing some eighteen acres.

The Albany Democrat says: "We have information that a very large number of immigrants from Iowa may be expected to arrive in Oregon during the coming summer."

A letter received from Major M. P. Berry, dated at La Grande, says that he does not anticipate any trouble with the settlers of the Wallowa valley. The Commission will most likely get through with the business of appraising their improvements in the course of two or three weeks.

A letter from Umatilla county says: "There was more than double the amount of grain sown this year than any former year since the settlement of this part of the State, and the green fields, with their beautiful waving grain, is a sight which is indeed a beautiful sight to behold."

Last week a man by the name of Wm. Bradley was killed by a bank caving in while he was at work in Rye valley, Baker county. It is not known whether or where deceased has any relatives living. Informant believes that he had formerly lived in Salem, Oregon. Deceased was about forty five years of age and a very temperate man.

A letter from Weston, in the Democrat, says: "People have been complaining this spring of hard times and scarcity of money, but of late there has been quite a large lot of cattle bought up in this county, which has had the effect of putting money in circulation among farmers and stock raisers; and it is thought by the time the present wool clip is sold, the county will be all right again, financially."

The Spirit says: "In Pendleton financial and business matters are at present in a good condition. There is some talk to the effect that the Umatilla Indians are dissatisfied with their reservation, and would much prefer part of them to go into the Wallowa valley and part into the Yakima region. Should this fine reservation be abandoned, a vast quantity of most excellent land would be thrown open to settlers. A Mr. Biles is to soon erect and put in active operation a flouring mill at Pendleton, the citizens having raised a bonus of from one thousand to fifteen hundred dollars. Pack trains and freight trains are daily passing through the town loaded with freight for the mining country. A party numbering eight or ten of the best citizens of the place is now out prospecting for a gold mine accidentally run across by one of their number some years ago, but which various reasons have prevented from being revisited. The party is sanguine of success."

THE LATE MINISTER TO RUSSIA AND HIS SUCCESSOR.—Poor Orr was a pretty lonely stranger at St. Petersburg. He could speak no tongue but the English, and the first secretary of the legation, Schuyler, seems to have gone off to Khiva on a tiff, being disappointed, it is said, by the feeble recognition of his diplomatic usefulness at Washington. A Tribune correspondent lays great stress on the folly of sending to this punctilious court a Minister who could speak neither Russian nor French. While we could not limit our foreign appointments strictly to the polyglot class of public men, the ability to talk in the vernacular of his post, is certainly a desirable qualification in a representative to a foreign country. Governor Jewell, Mr. Orr's successor, will have at his command the linguistic accomplishments of his wife and daughters, and, in addition, as he informs his friends with his usual bluff heartiness, has formed the determination to talk French before he gets to St. Petersburg, "or bust." His pluck reminds us of the assiduity with which John Adams, on the occasion of his first mission to Paris, studied and jabbered in the daytime and visited the theatre in the evening, till, in six weeks, he could conduct a conversation with Count de Vergennes.—Springfield Republican.

The inauguration of the grounds of the American National Rifle Association at Creedmoor, Long Island, took place on Saturday last. The range covers an extent of over one hundred acres and is for the use of the National Guard of New York. It is fitted up with Hythe targets, and the firing matches will include shooting up to one thousand yards distance. Governor Dix fired the first shot. Creedmoor Range was fitted up at an expense of over $20,000, an appropriation for that purpose having been made by the New York Legislature. Next fall the grand match of the National Rifle Association will be held, when every militia regiment in each State will be invited to send a shooting team to represent it in the contest.

The Presbytery of Oregon and Washington will convene at Olympia next Thursday.

A temperance circular from Indiana says: "Our country is swimming in a sea of rum," while "mighty waves of beer and whisky are rocking it from center to circumference."

A mechanic in Philadelphia proposes to build steamships of one solid piece of iron or steel, without seam or joint. This he accomplishes by welding the plates and frame, instead of using bolts and rivets.

The World man, who only exists through the leniency of the fool-killer, says: "The suburban residents of Indianapolis are divided between a base-ball nine and qui-nine. You mustn't say anything about chills there, though, or they'll be apt to egg you."

During his visit to America, Anton Rubinstein has given 215 concerts, and in each and all of them he has studiously avoided every form of composition that does not rightfully belong to the domain of high and pure art, and it is worth knowing that the people of the United States have paid to hear this kind of music about $350,000.

The Canadian papers lament the exodus of French Canadians, especially the young men, to the United States for permanent settlement. One paper goes so far as to affirm that in one day, from the Lower River du-Loup to Levis, 1,200 persons had departed for the United States, and that they were joined at the railway station by 600 others, who came by the first schooner, and who took the same direction.

A DOG STORY OF THE OLD FASHIONED KIND.—A few days since, Mrs. Joshua Hewitt, living near Pennsgrove, left her little boy, about three years old, in the yard, where he was amusing himself with a dog. Some time after she heard the dog creating a great disturbance below, barking and scratching at the door leading to the stairway, and making other demonstrations of distress. Apprehending that something was wrong, she ran down stairs and opened the door. With almost human sagacity the dog gave a bark of delight, and ran to an open well in the yard. The frightened mother ran to the well, which was fortunately filled nearly to the top with water, and discovered her child in time to snatch him from the waters just as he was sinking beneath the surface. When rescued the child was insensible, but restoratives being applied, consciousness returned. The dog meanwhile manifested its joy by capering about the room, jumping upon the couch where the infant was lying, and licking the face and form of the unconscious little one, which its sagacity had saved.

COLEMAN'S EUCALYPTUS
Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medicinal qualities of the Eucalyptus, which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medicinal utility, having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY CANAL, and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings, and cures them by its alterative healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.
It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHEA, etc.
This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco, in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy, and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised result, and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 405 Kearney street, San Francisco.
COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful, yet harmless febrifuge and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys, and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies for those diseases are entirely avoided.
FOR PHYSICIANS, Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1 lb bottles.
Beware of imitations, and take none but COLEMAN'S.

Truthful James to the Editor.

(Yreka, 1873.)

Which it is not my style
To produce needless pain
By statements that rile
Or that go 'gin the grain
But here's Captain Jack still a livin', and Nye has no skelp on his brain!

On that Caucasian head
There is no crown of hair.
It is gone, it has fled
And Echo sez "where?"
And I asks, "Is this Nation a White Man's, and is generally things on the square?"

She was known in the camp
As "Nye's other squaw,"
And folks of that stamp
Hez no rights in the Law,
But is treacherous, sinful and slimy, as Nye might hev' well known before.

But she said that she knew
Where the Injins was hid,
And the statement was true,
For it seemed that she did;
Since she led William where he was covered by Seventeen Modocs, and—slid

Then they reached for his hair,
But Nye sez "By the Law
Of Nations, forbear!
I surrenders—no more:
And I looks to be treated, you hear me?—as a pris'ner, a prisoner of war."

But Captain Jack rose
And he sez "It's too thin.
Such statements as those
It's too late to begin.
There's a Modoc indictment agin you, O Paleface, and you're goin' in.

You stole Sconchin's squaw
In the year 'sixty-two;
It was in 'sixty-four
That Long Jack you went through
And you burned Nasty Jim's rancheria and his wives, and his pappooses too.

"This gun in my hand,
Was sold me by you
'Gainst the law of the land,
And I grieves it is true."
And he buried his face in his blanket and wept as he hid it from view.

"But you're tried and condemned
And skelping's your doom";
And he paused and he hemmed—
But why this resume?
He was skelped 'gainst the custom of nations, and cut off like a rose in its bloom.

So I asks without guile,
And I trusts not in vain,
If this is the style
That is going to obtain—
If here's Captain Jack still a livin', and Nye with no skelp on his brain?

A Vigorous Epistle.

SENATOR BROWNLOW TO THE REBEL GENERAL D. H. HILL.

Sir: An article of yours, which recently appeared in the Charlotte (N. C.) Home, of which you are editor, I find going the rounds of the newspapers, in which you make an attack upon the character of the late General Canby, and other deceased officers of the United States army. In this editorial you do me the honor to bitterly denounce me. I say honor, for I esteem it an honor for any man who has been loyal to his country to be blackguarded and villified by you. Were I so unfortunate as to be the recipient of your commendation, I should feel like exclaiming, as did Socrates when applauded by a bad man like yourself, "What crime have I committed?"

You exult over the death of the brave Canby, assassinated by savages, and attribute his death, with that of Abraham Lincoln, Edward M. Stanton, George H. Thomas, Prof. Mahan of West Point, ex-Senator Preston King of New York, and the late Senator Lane of Kansas, to a retribution of God, because in the late civil war they opposed the effort to destroy the Government of the United States.

You say of General Canby that while he was in command at Richmond, Va., he "personally superintended the hanging of a white man up by the thumbs for kicking an insolent negro." Now this is your version of Canby's conduct, and the whole editorial you have written breathes so fiendish and brutal a spirit as to make you unworthy of credit.

Besides this, General Hill, the whole life of Gen. Canby gives the lie to your assertion that he did anything vulgar, inhuman, or unbecoming a high-toned soldier. Canby was a Christian gentleman as well as a model soldier. I am not prepared to deny that within Canby's department a white man was tied up by the thumbs. While he was commanding at Richmond a negro, under the Constitution of the United States as amended, which Canby was sworn to support, was entitled to all the rights and privileges of other citizens. As a West Pointer and an officer of the United States army before the war, you know that to tie a malefactor up by the thumbs was a common mode of punishment in the army, and Canby failed in his duty if he made distinction between criminals on account of race or color in meting out the pains and penalties required by good order and military discipline.

While as a matter of form and duty, as department commander, Canby would approve the verdict of a military court inflicting just and necessary punishment upon criminals violating the laws it was his duty to enforce, he was above being his own executioner. The management of the details he left to a man of brutal instincts, like yourself.

Now, General Hill, while you are falsely accusing General Canby of brutality, I propose to enlighten the public as to your military record. While in command in North Carolina, during the late war, twenty-six white men were tried on the charge of being loyal to the United States. No other offence was alleged against them. They were put on trial late in the afternoon, and, by the verdict of a drumhead court martial acting under your orders, all were hung until dead before breakfast the next morning, without benefit of clergy. Are you not a beautiful specimen to assail Canby on the score of brutality? I can think of nothing as supremely ridiculous, unless it would be for you and your friend Captain Jack to write a treatise on civilization for distribution among the Kuklux of North Carolina. Indeed, if I did not know that you were in North Carolina, I should infer from the brutality of your assault on Canby, Thomas, and others, that you were in the lava beds when it was written, and that the article was the joint production of yourself and Captain Jack.

Your assumption that the death of noble George H. Thomas by apoplexy, and the sudden deaths of Lincoln and other loyal men, are a retribution of the Almighty for the side they took in the late war, could be inspired only by the malignancy born of disappointed ambition, and the spirit which possessed the devil, the founder of Secession Democracy, of a preference to ruling in hell to serving in Heaven.

I am happy in the belief that many thousands of the honest masses in Tennessee, North Carolina, and elsewhere, who were misled and coerced into rebellion by just such men as you, General Hill, now repudiate your leadership and loathe your teachings.

If I were disposed to imitate you, I could give you a long list of men in civil and military life, supporting the rebellion, who have come to sudden and, in many cases, dishonorable deaths, but I prefer not to do so.

You rejoice over my paralysis as a punishment of God, because, as you say, I "cast my lot with the Abolitionists." I recognize the hand of God in my case, but I regard Him as interfering in my behalf. Probably not one man in a thousand would survive the exposure and hardships to which I was subjected while driven by rebel cavalry into the mountains and incarcerated in a rebel prison in mid-winter. While I am now in improving health, with a clear conscience, nearly all the men who were instrumental in my imprisonment, and who insulted me while in prison, are dead. Most of them died with delirium tremens, or in some other unnatural way. I would not parade their names before the world, as you would, for when God lays His hand on a man I take mine off, and I mention the fact in defending myself from your attack.

I have noticed that you and others, who have assailed Canby and Thomas since their death, never insinuated a charge reflecting upon their personal characters while they were living. To make accusations against a man after his death which you dared not make while he was living, would indicate to unprejudiced minds that you are a falsifier or a coward.

As to myself, I shall go on in the even tenor of my way, and, at the expiration of my term in the Senate two years hence, I expect to revive the Knoxville Whig, for the especial benefit of men of your stamp.

I am, &c., W. G. BROWNLOW.
Knoxville, Tenn., May 26, 1873.

Cheating United States Judges.

[From the N. Y. Independent.]

While we heartily approve of the act of Congress, at its last session, by which the salaries of the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States were increased, we as heartily condemn its omission to include in this increase judges of the District Courts, upon whom falls so large an amount of judicial business and responsibility. The salary of these judges now ranges, with two exceptions, from thirty-five hundred to four thousand dollars. Judge Blatchford, for example, upon whom is devolved the immense labor of the District Court in New York, receives but four thousand dollars, when he ought to be paid at least ten thousand. His salary will hardly pay his house rent; and if he had not ample private means, he would be compelled to resign his position from sheer necessity. Judge Benedict, of Brooklyn, receives the same shabby salary, and yet these two judges especially, owing to the location of their districts, are constantly adjudicating upon most important questions arising under our revenue, patent, admiralty, bankruptcy, postal, and criminal laws, as well as upon cases of every description occurring between citizens of different States. Their position demands legal abilities of the very first order. The sum of four thousand dollars, as the annual compensation for their services, is simply contemptible. Congress ought to be ashamed of such palpable injustice.

This injustice is not limited to New York and Brooklyn, but is extended through the whole country, falling with the most oppressive weight in those districts where the expense of living is the greatest. We notice that Judge Shipman, of the District Court of the United States for Connecticut (one of the ablest and most upright judges in the land, who recently tried the famous Jumel case in this city) has resigned his position, and resumed the practice of law, because of the insufficiency of his salary. He can do better than to serve the Government for the paltry pay of thirty-five hundred dollars. The practice of the legal profession is vastly more remunerative to a lawyer whose abilities fit him to be a judge. Judge Shipman is cheap at a salary of ten thousand dollars, and the Government had better paid this sum than to lose his services.

As to the honor of the position, no high-minded and competent lawyer will aspire to it or accept it if this meagre and mean rate of compensation be continued. Good judges like Judges Shipman, Blatchford, Benedict and others—will retire from the bench of the Federal judiciary; and second and third-rate men, and even bad men, like Judge Durell, will take their places. This natural result of insufficient salaries is already beginning to appear. Within the last year three district judges of the United States, of comparatively recent appointment, required the attention of Congress, and one of them is under impeachment. When the office is degraded by improper incumbents, as it surely will be at the present rate of salaries, its honors will have very few attractions to men of suitable ability and good social standing. They will spurn that which the Government itself holds at so cheap a price. If the Government adheres to the thirty-five hundred and four thousand dollar standard of salaries, then it will ere long get just the article it pays for, and this certainly will not consist in anything like first-class men.

If the injustice of such compensation be not sufficient to correct the evil, then the bad policy of the meanness ought to lead to a prompt remedy. Let it be remembered that the Government itself is the greatest litigant in the District Courts of the United States. In all criminal suits, in the largest part of the revenue cases, in suits connected with import duties, in a great variety of claims, and, indeed, in all cases which involve the infliction of any species of penalty, the people themselves appear as the plaintiff, and their interests are in serious jeopardy if such issues are to be tried by incompetent or dishonest judges. Suits of these classes are numbered by the thousand every year, and any sensible man can see at a glance that a bad judge may, in a single case, cost the Government ten, twenty, perhaps fifty times the amount of his salary. Having such constant occasion to resort to its own courts, the Government cannot afford to trust its interests in the hands of a thirty-five-hundred-dollar judge. It cannot with such a salary continue to buy the grade of judicial talent and character which the public service demands. The increase in the cost of living will make it impossible to retain or secure the proper men at this rate, and when this becomes a fact, the business of the District Courts of the United States will be transacted by men unfit for the service.

The last Congress made some approach to justice in raising the salaries of the judges of the Supreme Court: but left uncorrected this cheap, penny-wise and pound-foolish policy toward district judges. It could vote seventy-five thousand dollars to its own members, and take out of the public treasury a million and a half of dollars of back pay; but it could not afford to pay the district judges a decent salary for their services. Public sentiment condemns the back-pay swindle, while it sternly demands such a reform as will give the country good judges and also give these judges good pay. The people have no desire to play the sponge game on any branch of the national judiciary. They are abundantly able and willing to pay suitable salaries. We hope that a sense of proper decency will lead the next Congress to correct the evil of which we complain. The district judges of the United States feel that they are meanly treated. They cannot but feel so.

An old Vermonter, now a resident of San Francisco, speaking of the loss of various kinds of fish destined for the waters of our State by the railroad accident at Elkhorn Creek, expresses the opinion that the loss of the yellow perch of Vermont cannot be viewed in the light of a calamity. He says: "I feel sure that all who hail from the shores of Lake Champlain will agree with me when I say that a more worthless fish never swam. Small, bony, tasteless, prickly as a porcupine, fecund as the locusts of Egypt, they will soon drive all other fish from their vicinity. Witness several beautiful ponds in Vermont, once filled with trout, now swarming with nothing but perch."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

Monday Evening, June 23, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 116¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 85¼ buying; 86¼ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 800 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 11s 10d@11s 11d; club, 12s 4d.

It is generally considered that the present season in the financial world is the easiest of the year, other circumstances being equal. Therefore business men look upon it as nothing more than usual that manifest ease should prevail until the movement of the year's crop shall begin. It is feared that the tightening process will then begin anew and that rates for money will then go up to as high a figure as heretofore, and that the stringent state of the money market so severely felt last fall, winter and spring will be again the rule when the time comes to meet the demand for funds to move the grain crop of the country to the seaboard.

Our latest advices concerning financial affairs in Europe are quite favorable. The private cables from London and the Continent point to an early release of a large amount of the new gold coin now locked up in the Berlin Imperial Mint. The French Government has just paid $50,000,000 additional on the Franco-German indemnity, and the Bank of France has ample reserves in gold coin out of which to pay over $150,000,000 additional in July, August and September, to complete the whole indemnity. The British and American funds are firm in London, and other American stocks are quoted as on the advance.

Miscellaneous.

The inauguration of the gigantic enterprise of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, by the Darien Canal is being again extensively written about. The success of the undertaking would be of immense benefit to the commerce of the Pacific coast. The canal would be twenty eight miles long, and would cost $[illegible].

The latest advices from Honolulu indicate very flattering prospects of the sugar crop this season. On account of low prices in San Francisco, shipments to Australia are freer than heretofore.

A cargo of Coal from Coos Bay will be delivered here soon. The consumption by the various machine shops is lighter than last year, but the gas-works take heavier. San Francisco advices give a glutted market for foreign and domestic, with prices unsettled. The Seattle mines are not being worked for the present, owing to the low price of their production in California.

The coinage at the Philadelphia Mint for the month of May amounted to $2,191,558, of which $1,896,000 was in Gold, $249,000 in Silver, and $46,258 in base coinage.

A London despatch of the 5th inst. says "The amount of bullion which has gone into the Bank of England on balance to-day is £225,000. The rate of discount on the month a bill in open market is ⅛ per cent below bank rates."

Mr. R. G. Sneath, a former partner in the business house of Leveredge, Wadhams & Co., of this city, has been chosen one of the Managers of the Anglo Californian Bank, to begin business in San Francisco on the 1st of July.

During the first four months of the present year, there were exported, from Great Britain to the United States, 81,595 tons of Iron Rails as against 180,190 tons during the corresponding time in 1872—showing a falling off of much more than one-half.

Freights to the United Kingdom present but little interest, need a favorable turn for shippers. The San Francisco rates are £4 10s and cuts £5. Exporters are offering in California £4 for vessels for August and September. We are not advised of any vessels being taken by exporters here for arrival owing to the high price demanded by ship owners.

The most pressing want of the times, and one that will be pressed to a satisfactory issue, is cheap transportation. Its readiest facilities will probably be found in the improvement and utilization of water lines of transit; many of which have been inconsiderately neglected during the past ten years.

Home Produce Market.

The average business of the day in this line has been light, and is likely to be so for the entire week. Since our last review, however, prices have been generally well maintained. In wheat there will not be any further general movement before harvest, though buyers here are ready to take all offering at current rates, which are still firm at $1 50@1 52 per cental. The question of tonnage, in a sufficient supply to carry our surplus, is one which evidently has not been fully provided for, and if we are to have even as many vessels as last year, the arrangements to secure them have not yet been made public.

Other grains than wheat are in fair and very good demand, if we except oats, which continue of dull sale both for local consumption and shipment.

Dairy products and bacon are without important change, the market being well supplied at our last quotations. Of the latter we find that the several brands of sugar-cured hams, put up in our State, are being taken by regular customers of the packers, and are generally held at an advance of 3@5 cents per lb above common country cured. The general average of Oregon butter for this spring has been rather better than last year, though many lots are still coming to hand of a very inferior quality and which could not be sold to use as butter in any market in the world.

The supply of eggs was perceptibly increased by Saturday's receipts and prices are again dull—15 cents per dozen. There is nothing new to report in the wool market; prices appear to be a little stronger and we hear of some lots which have been taken at 21 to 22 cents per pound. The determination of growers to hold on for better rates seems to be general, and it now seems likely that no extensive purchases will be made for some time, as buyers do not appear inclined to accede to the demands of holders under the present condition of the market abroad. The question of tonnage for this staple does not figure so largely in our interests as that for wheat, as our shipments are nearly all first made to San Francisco, and thence much of it overland to the East.

FLORENCE!

THE BEST SEWING MACHINE IN THE WORLD. It does more work, more kinds of work, better work, and does its work easier than any other machine.

If there is a FLORENCE within a thousand miles of Portland not giving entire satisfaction, if I am informed of it, I will attend to it without expense of any kind to the owner.

We have the new style of FLORENCE machine that feeds the work away from the operator (like the Howe or Singer) to meet the views of those preferring that style of Machine.

I have located permanently in Portland, and shall keep constantly on hand a large assortment of all of the latest styles of the Florence machines. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere.

I have also the agency for the celebrated NONOTOCK CO SEWING SILK and TWIST; JOHN CLARK JR. & CO.'S SPOOL COTTON; WILLISTON'S CO. I MACHINE THREAD; BAILEY'S PARAFFINE SEWING MACHINE OIL.

Sold on the installment plan.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of [illegible] that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and [illegible] may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, [illegible] ted and disgusted [illegible] and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, and all those who are suffering with any of these [illegible] destroying maladies, see that they are [illegible] for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his [illegible] study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the [illegible] of [illegible] at physicians [illegible] and others [illegible] Both [illegible] and [illegible] inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these [illegible].

Seminal Weakness.

MARRIED

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are [illegible] not [illegible] to obtain [illegible].

DOCTOR GIBBON is [illegible] and will give to patients a written instrument, binding [illegible].

CURED AT HOME

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines [illegible] forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Post Office or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate

Beware of the San Francisco [illegible] and private [illegible] who, with [illegible] sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trade. Some are tin-smiths, shoemakers, [illegible] intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many [illegible] for, as advertising physicians [illegible] out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat those diseases he professes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian. 1y16d&w
